NEW BILL WOULD MAKE HUNTING LICENSE $1.50

Increase of Fifty Per Cent. Over Old Rate Asked by Game Dept.

CHANGE BOUNTY FEES

It will cost every Pennsylvania hunter $1.50 instead of $1 for a yearly hunting license, if a bill introduced in the Legislature at Harrisburg becomes a law. The bill was drafted by the State Game Commission. The fact that the charge for hunting licenses had been boosted fifty per cent. over previous years came to hunters generally as an unwelcome surprise.

The bill contains a number of features that will interest sportsmen. Bounties are fixed at $8 for wild cats, and $1.50 for fox and weasels. Farmers hunting on lands adjacent to their own will be required to take out hunting licenses. The fifty per cent. of license receipts heretofore set aside for bounties, excepting on the land actually occupied by the farmer, is no longer so designated.

Groundhogs have finally been classified as among game animals and the open season established as August 1 to Nov. 30. An entirely new wrinkle is one making it illegal to dig groundhogs out of holes. In other words, if Mr. Groundhog is chased and is lucky enough to scamper into a hole the hunter must abandon matters. Red squirrels will be an open season article from Nov. 1 to Aug. 15, which is virtually an all-year period. The general small game period is fixed for November. The several seasons established in the proposed code are as follows:

Blackbirds, upland plover and woodchuck (groundhog), Aug. 1 to Nov. 30.

Rail, coot, mud hens and shore birds, (except woodcock), Sept. 1 to Nov. 30.

Wild water fowl, Oct. 1 to Jan. 15.

Raccoon, Nov. 1 to Jan. 31.

Wild turkeys, woodcock, ruffed grouse, quail, including Virginia, Hungarian gambel and valley; ring-neck pheasants, grey, black and fox squirrels and rabbits and hares, Nov. 1 to Nov. 30.

Bear, Nov. 1 to Dec. 15.

Deer and elk, Dec. 1 to Dec. 15.

Every deer killed must have horns 8 inches long, and only 7½ inch horns on your deer will cost you $100.

All the fur bearers are protected, excepting from Nov. 1 to Dec. 28, the skunk being among them. No digging or smoking out of the fur bearers is allowed, excepting by the land owners on cultivated lands, or where damage is done.

The provisions permitting the killing of game birds or animals by property owners who have suffered damage, when they catch the game in the act, is re-enacted, but the property owner must notify the Game Department within 24 hours and must dress the carcass and turn it over to the Commonwealth for shipment.

No dog is permitted to chase squirrels or wild turkey, nor is a hunter accompanied by a dog permitted to kill them.

Auto Show Progress.

At the Centre County Automobile Dealers' association annual show in the Bellefonte armory on March 7 to 10, W. C. Rowe, show manager, is announcing an attractive ticket selling contest. Four cash prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded. Only girls from Centre County and over 14 years of age may participate. Each ticket will be marked with the name and address of the girl. Upon presentation at the show it will be placed in a sealed box. None will be withdrawn until the closing night of the show. Then four will be taken from the box. The girl whose name and address is on the first ticket will be entitled to $50; the second, $25; the third, $15; the fourth, $10. Girls wishing to enter the contest should communicate with the show manager at once.

Ruts Make Driving Hazardous.

Ruts in the snow and ice have been making driving a hazardous proposition for the motorists the past few weeks. But with the danger greater care is used and, while many close shaves have occurred, the lack of serious accidents indicates that motoring might be safer on roads where danger is apparent than on the stretches that tempt speeding.

Business Men Banquet Tonight.

The Associated Business Men of Bellefonte will banquet this Thursday evening at the Brockerhoff House, with chicken and many other good side dishes as the menu. The speaker is Charles Schmidt, of Harrisburg, prominent Kiwanis worker, whose subject is "Co-operation in Civic Affairs."

WILL BE 92 ON SUNDAY.

Mrs. Jonathan Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, Is Near Birthday.

Mrs. Jonathan Bilger, beloved by the many who know her in her home town—Pleasant Gap—is near another milestone in her long span of years and will observe her 92nd birthday on Sunday if Providence sees fit to spare her until then. This is altogether likely, as she is still enjoying remarkable health. She attributes her longevity to the clean, simple life and to spending considerable time out of doors when the weather is favorable.

Mrs. Bilger's husband has been dead for about thirteen years. They had thirteen children and twelve are living as follows: Miss Vergie and Miss Annie, at home; Mrs. G. W. Rees, Mrs. Abbie Rockey and Wilson Bilger,, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Harry Corl, of Trafford City; Mrs. Otis Hile, of Pleasant Gap; Thomas, Okla., Frank and Newton, Kansas; Mrs. Loretta Yohey, Ohio, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bender, Lancaster.

CAPELLO "NOT GUILTY"

Jury Out 144 Hours in Clinton County Murder Case.

The jury in the Capello murder case in Lock Haven reached a verdict of "Not Guilty" on Saturday morning at 10.45 o'clock. They were out 114 hours, claimed to be a record in Clinton County.

Tony Capello was tried for the murder of Elizabeth Harley who met her death in an auto joy-ride one evening in December. The case was reported in one instance as the most revolting ever tried in Clinton County courts.

About 70 ballots were taken by the jury. The first ballot showed nine in favor of acquittal and three who wanted Capello convicted for second degree murder. The three held out until the end when, finding themselves unable to convince any one of the nine that they were right, they lined up with the others and the verdict was decided.

Called to Clear Wreckage.

The Tyrone work crew was called to Bellefonte with the big derrick to assist in clearing away wreckage and opening the track of the Bellefonte Central Railroad at Filmore, going on Friday morning to the scene of the wreck which occurred, early in the week when a train with an engine pulling and one at the rear as pusher "doubled" and upset three cars from the track. The engineer put on brakes in the front engine and the rear engine pushed ahead, buckling the train. One of the cars upset was a tank filled with gasoline, some of which leaked away. Section Foreman Lew Hipple inspected the tracks over which the Pennsy derrick was taken before the trip was made as it is very heavy. This was one of the worst wrecks on the B. C. R. R. in years and put the company to considerable loss.

Mott—Benson.

Basil J. F. Mott, one of this section's most widely known and popular young men, and Miss Alice Naomi, daughter of Mrs. Christine Benson, of New York, were united in marriage last Saturday evening in Philadelphia by Father John J. Ford at the rectory of St Francis Xavier's parish. The groom is a son of Mrs. Odille Mott and is manager of the Mott Drug Co. store in Bellefonte. He graduated with honors from the Medico Chi college in Philadelphia in 1915 and was an instructor in the college for one year, after which he came to Bellefonte to conduct the drug store. Mr. and Mrs. Mott will occupy the apartments over the drug store. They have best wishes of The Republican and a host of friends.

Moore—Cawley.

J. Howard Moore, instructor in French and English in the Bellefonte High school, and Miss Julia Cawley, of Milton, were married at Milton on January 27th. Mr. Moore went to Milton, his home town, to spend the weekend and managed to keep his wedding a secret to his friends here until last week. He has made many friends since coming to Bellefonte and they join in wishing him and his bride much happiness through life.

Boal—Shawley.

John F. Boal and Miss Emma E. Shawley, both of Bellefonte, were married at the United Evangelical parsonage on Monday by the pastor, Rev. Reed O. Steely. The ring ceremony was used. The groom is a valued employe of the local silk mill. They will reside in Bellefonte.

Heaton—Ulsh.

Hensyl L. Heaton, of Bellefonte, and Miss Jeannette Ulsh, of Altoona, were married on Jan. 16 at Grace Reformed church in Altoona, according to announcement made on Saturday. They have started housekeeping in Altoona, where Mr. Heaton is employed.

SUES FOR $55,000 IN BURNSIDE TWP. CONTRACT

Williamsport Lumber Firm Alleges Fraud and Forgery.

TWO HELD FOR COURT

William and Elizabeth Clark, charged with defrauding the Coleman Lumber Co., of Williamsport, to an amount of approximately $55,000, were given a hearing before Justice J. M. Keichline yesterday afternoon and bound over for court in $1,000, each.

The hearing was lengthy and complicated. In the informations, one against Mrs. Clark and one against her husband, sworn to by John Coleman, a partner of the lumber company, alleges that he employed the Clarks, who came here from Emporium, in an agreement covering operating of a tract of timber in Burnside Twp; that during the past two years sums of money running into thousands of dollars have been entrusted to their care and that the Clarks frequently appropriated large sums to their own use; that they also fraudulently converted to their own use bark and lumber from the operations and that they fraudulently made checks to the prejudice of the lumber company.

The hearing before Justice Keichline was on the charges of forgery, fraud and conversion. The charge of appropriating approximately $55 000 is made in a bill of equity to be tried in court here to prevent the Clarks from further operation.

TO ABOLISH SALOONS

Search and Seizure Feature in Pinchot's Enforcement Bill.

Governor Pinchot this week had introduced in the Legislature at Harrisburg a prohibition enforcement bill which if passed will wipe out all licensed saloons in Pennsylvania. The Governor declared that the full power of the administration would be used to have the bill become a law.

In addition to abolishing all saloons the bill has a search and seizure clause which would permit officers to enter and search private homes. Such search could be made, however, only after a justice of the peace or alderman had issued a warrant.

Home-made wines, manufactured after the bill is passed and signed by the Governor, and containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol, if possessed in a private home make the possessor just as liable to search and arrest as if he possessed so-called liquors.

BOOTLEGGER ARRESTED

Taken Into Custody for Second Time in Lock Haven.

Patsy Capruccio, of Lock Haven, was arrested on Saturday for the second time on a charge of selling whiskey in violation of the Woner act, which figured in the party the evening that Elizabeth Harley met her death. Capruccio was arrested when Tony Capello testified that he had purchased a quart of whiskey from him preceding the joy-ride.

Capruccio was discharged after being arrested the first time, according to a document in the case, for lack of sufficient evidence to convict him on selling whiskey. He furnished $1,000 bail for a hearing which was held late this afternoon.

Academy Banquet.

The Bellefonte Academy held its annual athletic banquet in the Academy banquet hall last Saturday evening from 6.30 to 10.30 o'clock. The spirit, the music, the speeches, the menu were all most acceptable and delightful. The decorations of pennants, the gold and blue—the school colors—were beautiful. Headmaster J. R. Hughes was toast master. The toasts of several of the Academy boys were surprisingly good. The teachers and students were much impressed by the earnest speeches of Robert Hunter, Col. Fred Reynolds, Rev. M. D. Maynard, Rev. D. R. Evans, Dr. George Bible, Prof. Arthur Sloop, Chas. R. Kurtz, Horatio S. Moore and Col. Jack Spangler. About twenty football players received their athletic diplomas. The music of the Academy orchestra and the Academy quartet furnished much pleasure during the evenevening.

Parent-Teachers Meeting.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association will be held in the High School building Monday evening, Feb. 12th. Rev. Wilson P. Ard and Dr. Geo. P. Bible will speak.

REDUCTION IN MILLAGE SAVING TO TAX-PAYERS

Bellefonte Council Adopts Schedule of Normal Times.

OTHER COUNCIL NOTES

Perhaps the most interesting recommendation in Town Council in a long time was that of the finance committee at the regular meeting on Monday evening in proposing a reduction in tax millage. The recommendation was a follows:

Borough, 5 mills
Street, 10 mills.
Interest, 5 mills.

In 1922 the schedule was as follows:

Borough 10 mills.
Street, 10 mills.
Interest, 5 mills.

In making the recommendation, the finance committee said the reduction in the borough taxes was made by doing away with the millage added for the purpose of purchasing the triple combination pumpers. They are paid for now and the town has this much needed equipment. The reduction of 5 mills in taxation will mean a big saving to the tax-payers.

The session of Council was longer than usual. There were several heated discussions and President Walker was obliged to call for order several times.

There discussion was started by Chairman Flack, of the fire and police committee, suggesting that a bill from the Sheriff for $17.50 be refused payment. It developed that the bill was for care of prisoners at a rate of $1 50 per night, fixed by ordinance, the prisoners being kept at the jail because there is no lock-up to put them in and because the matron of the borough alms house refused to take them. It was brought out that the men cared for were not what might be termed criminal wanderers or vagrants but fellows looking for work. There seemed to have been a different understanding as to the law as given out by Borough Solicitor N. B. Spangler. Mr. Emerick said, "You must take care of them. The law says you can't turn a poor man out." Mr. Cunningham said, "The solicitor says that it is not proper for the Council to pay such bills but is up to the poor department." Finally, the bill was ordered paid and the chairman of the fire and police committee instructed to interview the solicitor and ascertain just what course the borough should follow.

The fire and police committee also reported a fire at the Ives Harvey residence on Feb. 23 Several small bills were turned in for payment.

Prof. James R. Hughes, headmaster of the Bellefonte Academy, and his brother, Charles Hughes, business manager, were present. The former called attention of Council to a misunderstanding in settlement of two propositions. He referred to the putting in of a sewer to drain the water from the cesspool and that it was his understanding and his opinion that the borough should pay for the part within the borough limits. H. P. Harris, who was chairman of the street committee at the time the sewer was put in, verified the understanding given by Mr. Hughes and the matter was referred to the street committee, who holds an account against the Academy for curbing improvement on Spring street of approximately $400 which Mr. Hughes desired to offset by the bills, asproximately $500, which he settled for in building the sewer part that was in the borough limits.

Mr. Hughes also explained that he desired more fresh water for the pool, showing Council that the Hughes athletic field and the swimming pool are for the use of the public and town and considered as such, he making charges for use of the field only when scheduled matches are played there. He asked that Council consider assisting him in extending the town water main to the field so that he could fill the pool from it without so much inconvenience as formerly and yet always have an abundant supply of good, clean water.

The report of Martin H. Knutsen, of the Pennsylvania State College, stated the analysis of Bellefonte water had been made and was good. Also, bill was enclosed for $5.

It was announced that the intention of Council is to extend the sewer on East High street to those seven families who petitioned for it but no definite action was taken.

A letter from the State Association of Boroughs requested urgently that Council send two representatives and that the Burgess accompany them to the conven-

TELEGRAM SENT BY MAIL

Prof. J. R. Hughes Says Delay Cost Him About $40.

"How long should it take for a telegram to go seventy miles?" is a topic that will be discussed considerably since Prof. James R. Hughes, headmastea of the Bellefonte Academy, is the one who has put forward the question.

"Why I sent a telegram to the St. Francis college to inform the basket ball team not to come here last Friday to play a scheduled game of basket ball as it was inconvenient and nothing had been arranged for the game. Its just about seventy miles over to Cresson, where St. Francis college is located, and I sent that telegram on Thursday afternoon. The operator at Cresson could have sent it to the college by bus or person. It would have been better for him to have called on the telephone. But what do you suppose?" said Mr. Hughes.

"Friday afternoon on the 1:26 train the basket ball team arrived in Bellefonte," continued Mr. Hughes. "I know the coach well and I said, 'Why didn't you get my telegram. I sent it yesterday and I am not prepared for a game.' Learning that the telegram had not been delivered I said, 'Well, I will arrange for a game somehow, but there won't be any crowd and the whole thing will be a loss to me.' So the game was scheduled for Saturday at 1 o'clock in order to get through that the team might return to Cresson on the 3:08. I told the coach to find out, if possible, why the telegram was not delivered. Here I have his letter and the telegram.

"That operator got the telegram Thursday evening, but instead of calling the college on the phone and stopping the team from coming, mailed the telegram and here the postoffice stamp shows it was not mailed until the following morning at 8:30 o'clock, expecting it to go through the town and in time to keep the team from leaving at 11 o'clock. Think of it!

"Not only that, but the operator also, I understand, sold the team the tickets to come here without saying anything about the telegram, for he is employed at the station.

"I am going to send the telegram to the office in New York city and the Western Union will pay the $40 which I lost for their neglect in delaying the message. Of course, the negligence was in Cresson, not here."

Thus, it looks as though the Western Union will be requested to pay $40 because a 40 cent message was delayed.

FIRE IN BUSH ADDITION.

In Kerstetter Property Occupied by Fred Walker.

The dwelling property of J. L. Kerstetter, in Bush Addition, was damaged to the extent of about $500 by fire on Tuesday morning. The Undine Fire Co. responded to the alarm, sent in by Mr. Kerstetter, and kept the loss at a minimum, as the blaze had gained considerable headway.

The fire was in the house occupied by Fred Walker and family. It is near another house owned and occupied by Mr. Kerstetter. The latter was seated at a window in his home and noticed smoke coming from the side of the house occupied by Walkers. He looked closer and discovered that the building was afire.

An alarm was turned in promptly. The firemen discovered the fire was between the partitions, apparently having started near a flue. It burned through the side of the house and to the roof.

Real Cold Snap.

The coldest weather of the winter hovered over the United States the early part of this week. In Centre County the temperature was around zero. In the Rio Grande valley in Texas the first snow in twenty years was reported. At Florida the temperature dropped to 40 degrees and those who had been enjoying the balmy weather of the southland shivered in that temperature. Relief was promised to come promptly.

New Quarantines.

New quarantines placed last week—Edward Hull, Lamb street, mumps; J. LaBarre, Curtin street, chicken pox; Edward Cain, Logan street, mumps; Roy Yarnell, High street, chicken pox; David Casper, Curtin street, chicken pox; Chas. McCoy and William Gates, both Beaver and Hoy row, chicken pox.

ROAD SUPERVISORS IN ANNUAL MEETING HERE

Passed Four Resolutions; Did Not Favor Another.

OFFICERS AS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Centre County Road Supervisors association was held in the Court House in Bellefonte on Wednesday and the program carried through as planned.

The meeting opened with an address by the president, Milford Pletcher. Committees were appointed and the report of the state convention given by O. P. McCord. Discussion—a county board of auditors—was in charge of County Commissioner Geo. H. Yarnell. Discussion—a county tax collector—was in charge of J. F. Rishel, of Penn Twp.

Judge H. C. Quigley delivered an address at the opening of the afternoon session. H. A. Thompson, of the state highway department, delivered an address. Two questions were discussed—What help should the townships receive from the state to maintain roads? What kind of road work actually pays a township?

Officers were elected as follows: Milford Pletcher, president; W. A. Jodon, vice president; W. H. Austin, secretary—treasurer; J. W. Hartsock, assistant secretary—treasurer; Milford Pletcher, O. P. McCord, N. J. Wilson, delegates to state convention; Chas. Houser, D. S. Reese, James Emerick, alternates.

T. C. Harbeson, district forester from Milroy, was present and asked the supervisors to urge cleanliness along the highways and roads, keep brush cleaned up and destroy the weeds.

Four resolutions were passed to be taken to the state convention. Briefly, they urge as follows:

Want the incoming Legislature and the Governor to make an appropriation sufficiently large enough to cover all State rewards now in arrears and also provide a fund to care for applications on State reward for the years 1923 and 1924.

The state's share of the gasoline tax kept in the district to be used on township roads.

Went on record as opposed to any legislation taking away from township officials the collection of taxes in their district.

That all state roads shall be kept up by the state and by the county in which they are located.

Another resolution was voted down: That all land and property owners be compelled to remove all weeds and brush along public roads.

Those attending were.

Must Obey Parking Rules.

In a proclamation this week Burgess Walker states that parking within 15 ft. of a fire hydrant or within 50 ft. from centre of either Logan or Undine fire companies is strictly forbidden. Also, it is unlawful to drive on the left or to park cars on the left side of any street, lane or alley.

Had Large Family.

William H. Albright, who had gained notoriety through having Clearfield County's largest family, died last week from a stroke of paralysis. He was the father of 21 children, 16 of whom are living. He was 78 years old.

Why Farmers are Turning to

CHEVROLET

for Economical Transportation

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

HOT BROWN STEW FOR SCHOOL LUNCH

Appetizing Dish for School Lunch.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An appetizing hot dish that can be served in the classroom for lunch at school is a simple brown stew made of meat and vegetables. The cheaper and less tender cuts of beef can be used, such as the rump and the round. The United States Department of Agriculture gives these directions for making the stew:

Remove the meat from the bone and cut it into small pieces. Dredge with flour and cook in a small amount of fat until it is well browned. Add hot water, about one quart to every pound of meat; season with salt, pepper and onion juice; and cook slowly for an hour. The meat should be very tender and the gravy thick. Potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, or other vegetables may be added while the stew is cooking.

BETTER METHODS FOR LAUNDERING

Need for Demonstration Work Shown by Surveys Made in Two Missouri Counties.

MACHINES SAVE MUCH TIME

Comparisons Were Also Made in Ironing, Both With and Without Electricity and Ironing With Mangle—Latter Best.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Results of surveys in Lafayette and Saline counties, Mo., have recently been tabulated by extension workers of the United States Department of Agriculture, to show the need for demonstration work in improved methods of washing and ironing. In Saline county only 2 per cent of the people sent the washing out of the house, 25 per cent still used the washboard, 40 per cent used hand machines, and 33 per cent used power washers. The average time for doing washing with a power machine was two hours, as compared with four and one-half hours with a washboard. In ten families where machines have been purchased since the survey was made, it is estimated that two and three-quarter hours a week, or 133 hours a year, are saved in each household.

Washing Done at Home.

In Lafayette county, 96 per cent of the washing was done at home. The tub and washboard method was used by 29 per cent, hand-power machines by 34 per cent, 21 per cent had gasoline washing machines and 16 per cent had machines operated by an electric motor. Clothes were handled five times on an average. The time for doing washing by motor power was approximately half of that used to do it by tub and washboard method.

Mangle Is Best.

Similar comparisons between hand ironing, both with and without an electric iron, and ironing with a mangle, were made. To iron 25 pounds of clothes with an electric iron took six and one-half hours and cost 32 cents for electricity. To iron 25 pounds with a mangle took one hour and used current worth 39 cents.

JELLY ON PANTRY SHELVES

Housewives Last Year Either Sold or Put Away 1,335,000 Containers—Also Fruit.

Farm housewives last year either sold or put on their pantry shelves 1,335,000 containers of jelly, 9,500,000 cans of fruit and vegetables, and 715,000 pounds of poultry and meat, canned according to methods demonstrated to them by extension agents of the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges.

DELICIOUS PUDDINGS FROM HOMINY GRITS

Comparatively Inexpensive and Excellent for Breakfast.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hominy grits are comparatively inexpensive, and are excellent as a cooked breakfast cereal or as a foundation for other dishes. Here are two recipes for using hominy grits, recommended by food specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture:

Hominy Date Pudding.

1 cupful hominy grits.
5 cupfuls milk.
1 teaspoonful salt.
¼ cupful of sugar.
1 cupful chopped seeded dates.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Add the salt and hominy grits to the milk, and cook in a double boiler one hour. Add sweetening, dates, and vanilla and mix well. Partly cool before serving.

Fruit Scallop.

1½ cupfuls cooked hominy grits.
1 cupful stewed and sweetened apricots.
½ cupful apricot juice.
½ tablespoonful butter.

Into a greased baking dish place, first, a layer of hominy grits which have been mixed with the fruit juice, then a layer of the stewed fruit. Repeat until dish is nearly full. Dot over with the butter, and sprinkle with one tablespoonful of sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake until brown. Serve hot or cold with sauce or top milk.

Dried or canned fruit can be used.

KITCHEN TABLES AND SINKS

It Frequently Happens That Working Surface Is Much Too Low for the Housekeeper.

Kitchen tables and the bottom of sinks are frequently too low for the housekeeper to stand and work at comfortably. Low working surfaces are often responsible for tired backs and rounded shoulders because of the undue stooping and the strain on the arms and shoulders. The following figures suggest the proper heights of working surfaces for women of different heights:

| Height of Woman. | Inches. |
| 4 feet 10 inches | 27 |
| 5 feet | 28 |
| 5 feet 2 inches | 29 |

The kitchen table can be raised to the proper height by the use of blocks of wood, the United States Department of Agriculture suggests. One type of block has a socket in which the table leg fits securely. Another type has metal strips and screws or nails for fastening it to the legs of the table or cabinet.

Four Aged Men Grab Rusty Rifle and Leave Almshouse to Answer Call of Wild.

GOT REAL BRAINSTORM

Thriller Dealing With Exploits of Royal Northwest Mounted Police Causes Sensation in Old Men's Home.

New York.—The only way to deprive the inevitable of its unexpectedness is to stop confusing the improbable with the obvious.

Take the story that broke out in the Old Men's home in Passaic, N. J.

Thursday night they tacked a sheet upon the wall at the far end of the dining room, turned off the lights and put on a five-reel thriller, dealing with exploits in the life of the Royal Northwest Mounted—the lads who sleep with one eye open.

What happened?

Nothing much happened except the inevitable.

The next morning when the officials called the roll for prunes and oatmeal four of the old men were missing. They had grabbed an old, rusty rifle and slipped away in the night, headed in the general direction of the Arctic Circle, to track law breakers through the frozen North.

Never Seen One Before.

It must be remembered in this connection that the four old men had never before seen a moving picture. It doesn't do to say they were thrilled. It was more than a thrill. They were electrified! They got a brainstorm.

During the parts of the picture where the hero grabbed the flaxen-haired heroine to his sealskin breast and told her it was "She and she only, and that in this world of women, beautiful and good, she was the queen of 'em all—the Lady Paramount," the old men fell so hard for the picture they nearly fell off their seats.

After it was all over the excitement in the dining room was intense. Several of the old chaps hobbled over to the tablecloth on the wall, peered behind it, tapped the wall and tottered away shaking their heads dubiously.

Darned if it wasn't uncanny.

Call of the Wild.

But the four runaways didn't worry about the mechanism of the thing. Mechanism wasn't what was seething in their brains. It was the call of the wild—the voice of the mountains and the open spaces—the eternal hills and the hush of the—you know, all that stuff.

What's the difference between eight and eighty? Nothing. Put a zero after eight and you have eighty.

And, whether you look out on life at eight from the polished panes of a nursery or at eighty from the murky windows of an almshouse, it's only life that you're looking at, after all.

Men are only old when they work at things that children play at. And after they've worked at them for a long time they see how foolish they are and they go back to play.

It seems to be God's way of quieting them before He puts them to sleep.

Cat Dies at Age of Twenty-Four.

Billings, Mont.—Thomas Patriarch, the oldest cat in the United States, and in the world, is dead here, aged twenty-four years and three months, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Sample. Owing to the loss of his teeth he had ceased to bother mice and lived on condensed milk during his final year. Thomas' claim to being the oldest cat in the country was threshed out a year ago, when a twenty-year-old kitten at Missoula laid claim to the age championship.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Way

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it." —Mrs. M. OHLEN, 3640 S. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

Women Confer on Their Sex in Industry

Did you know that there are eight and one-half million wage-earning women in the United States? This, coupled with the fact that many thousands of them are mothers and homekeepers brings about some definite problems which were discussed at the women's industrial conference which was held by the woman's bureau of the Department of Labor on January 11-13 with representative women from all over the country attending. The photograph shows (left to right): Mrs. Mary N. Winslow, editor and director of exhibits for the bureau; Miss Mary V. Robinson, assistant editor, and Miss Lida Lee, assisfant director of exhibits, with some of the exhibits which were shown. Insert is portrait of Miss Mary Anderson, who was in charge of conference.

Slap Unseals Secret Murder 30 Years Old

Angry Father of Punished Girl Reveals Confession That Convicts Wife Slayer.

SLEW WOMAN WITH MATTOCK

Only Person Who Knew Truth Gets Religion and After 30 Years of Silence Tells the Story of Crime.

Raleigh, N. C.—If old John Shepherd's boy hadn't slapped three teeth out of old Ves Wingler's daughter's month, and if old John Shepherd hadn't got religion at the hands of a wandering mountain evangelist, old man Wingler might have rounded out his allotted three-score years and ten with his second wife and their numerous children in his cabin on the banks of Reddy's creek, high up in the Blue Ridge, and the old theory that slaying will out would have stood discredited.

Or if old Ves Wingler had been a little more discreet in his use of a grubbing hoe 30 years ago, it would not have come to pass that, now in his sixty-first year, he finds himself grasping a mattock provided by the North Carolina state prison with the certainty that as soon as he wears it out on the roads of the state another will be provided for him.

If old man Wingler had been content with the buxom, easy-going and altogether serviceable wife of his youth, it wouldn't have mattered whether his daughter lost her teeth at the hands of a somewhat primitive suitor, and old man Shepherd could have had all the pangs of newly acquired religion his soul craved, with no trouble to anybody.

Tired of His Wife.

But it didn't happen that way. Wingler got tired of his wife two years and seven days after he brought her to his one-room log cabin. He took his mattock in hand and crushed her skull with it. There was nobody there to see it save their five-months-old daughter, and the nearest neighbor lived a mile down the creek. They heard the wife screaming.

The time between the suppression of the dying wife's screams and the arrival of the first of the contingent of neighbors was employed by Wingler in deep meditation on means of explaining that his wife had suffered an accident, and that he had taken none but a husbandly part in the event. He put on the habiliments of woe, lifted up his voice in heart-broken lamentation, and stirred his imagination with his fears.

First came the people of his own blood, his mother, and a regiment of sisters, who lived nearest the little cabin. Entering the room, they beheld the young wife lying on the floor, with her head toward the fire-place.

Accused of Killing.

"Yes, you killed her," charged his mother.

"I know it, but tell 'em that she fell out of the loft and hit her head on the pot on the hearth there," pleaded Ves.

"There's no place in the loft where she could have fallen out," observed the canny mountain woman.

"Well, make one," pleaded the distracted husband.

Wingler turned toward the door to see John Shepherd standing there, hesitating between a grin at what he had overheard and blanched horror at what he saw lying on the bed. The two men stared at each other. Wingler was a powerful man. Shepherd was a man of lesser caliber, and he quailed before the terrible look that he had seen in the eyes of the master of the cabin. Wingler crossed over toward him.

"I—killed—her," he said, slowly, "but if—you—breathe a word of it, I—will—kill—you."

That was all that was ever said between them. Shepherd watched the mother and sisters open a hole in the low ceiling over the hearth, widen it big enough for a heavy woman to fall through, and then turn to minister to the stricken wife. Other neighbors came and looked on darkly. Through the night the mother and sisters of the husband watched the ebbing tide of life drift out. Dawn and death entered the cabin hand-in-hand, and the neighbors prepared the body for burial.

But dawn brought Wingler almost to the disaster that he afterward staved off for 30 years. Sudden and bloody death is not unusual in the mountains of North Carolina, where men's passions run without restraint, but here was a woman dead. It was unusual, and the thoughts that flashed to the mind of the man's mother were reflected in the minds of everybody.

Coming by ones and twos from their fair coves in the mountains, to watch beside the woman, a dozen women gathered there. And women are naturally more observant than men. One had seen the marks of a struggle before the door of the house, blood on the ground, a trail leading to the low steps, the print of a bloody hand on either side of the mattock. These things they told their husbands.

A Jury of Men.

It was 17 miles across the hills, and no roads save trails to the county seat, but the coroner came. He assembled a jury, but only the men attended. Testifying before juries was not the part for women to play in that remote settlement three decades ago. Only the men came, and of them all only Wingler and Shepherd knew anything. Shepherd was silent, under the threatening eye of Wingler, and Wingler's story alone was heard.

The jury doubtfully took his word for it, and since there was no doctor there to look at her wounds, the verdict was that she fell out of the loft and was killed accidentally.

Back home with their wives, the men had fresh suspicion planted in their minds, and ten days later they went 17 miles and got a doctor. They exhumed the body and made a casual examination. But wonders die after nine days, even in the mountains, and they were not impressed by the doctor, anyhow. The body had mortified, and they were glad enough to put it back in the ground and forget about it.

Happiness Unmarred.

After what less simple folk would call an indecently short length of time, Ves Wingler married again. His second wife was fifteen years his junior. They lived prosperously and had many children. The cabin rotted down, and they moved into a more dignified dwelling place. Apparently the specter of his dead wife never returned to trouble the husband. Ves Wingler was happy.

Twenty-nine years he lived the life of the average mountaineer. He was at times accused of making liquor without sanction of the law. He drank and brawled and gambled, now in company of John Shepherd and now without him. So far as the evidence went at the trial, the death of his wife was never mentioned between them. Ves Wingler closed the book and dared anybody to open it.

Their families maintained amiable relations. The sons of Shepherd courted the daughters of Wingler, even down to the younger strata of the two families.

Evangelist Comes.

With the opening of spring there came into the fastnesses of the Blue Ridge a migrant evangelist. He preached a simple doctrine of hell fire and damnation. He pictured the terrors of eternal fire that burned for all who forsook not their stills, their brawlings and their gamblings and destruction for all who repented not and confessed not their sins. Shepherd harkened unto the preacher and confessed his own sins.

Then on a warm spring evening when a young Shepherd was calling on one of the daughters of the house of Wingler, the youngest daughter, made a nuisance of herself generally. The ardent swain from the house of Shepherd, irked by her continued interference, slapped her teeth, three of them, completely out of her mouth. She went bawling to Wingler and the son of Shepherd was banished with threats.

Next morning, Wingler repaired to the magistrate and issued a warrant charging Shepherd with assault and battery on the person of his daughter. The boy fled the state, and there was war between the houses of Wingler and Shepherd. Wingler made threats and Shepherd hinted darkly that Wingler had better be careful. But he was not careful.

Convicted of Crime.

Within a week, Wingler had fled the state two jumps ahead of a sheriff, who wanted him for the killing of his wife 30 years before. Some time later he returned to the state and was taken into custody, tried, convicted of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to 30 years at hard labor in the state prison. The Supreme court in one of the most remarkable opinions on record, denied him a new trial.

In vain did attorneys for the defendant hammer on the theory of vengeance, stirred by the prosecution of young Shepherd. In vain they accused witnesses of a conspiracy against him and brought impeachment against the character of every one of them. The jury stood adamant, not because they believed John Shepherd, but because they believed the women.

Times have changed. Thirty years ago not a woman felt that she could attend an inquest and maintain her self-respect. Every one of them brought through the years a vivid picture of what she had seen. They ached to tell it, and they made a story of it.

Pious oaths sworn to by Shepherd, bastioned with newly-found Biblical citations, had little weight. He had heard Wingler say he killed his wife. It was what the women had seen that the jury took as sufficient circumstantial evidence. In vain did Wingler tell his story of the wife who fell out of the loft. The women had him when they remembered so much and told it with unanimity as to detail. Perhaps 30 years' enforced silence had heightened the picture.

Eight months have passed since Wingler's daughter lost her teeth, but in that far settlement that straddles the Blue Ridge as it runs southward across the western end of North Carolina, they still marvel about it. It has become epic. Shepherd is preparing to move away before the tide of reaction to a more pious community. And the little toothless Wingler girl likely will never see her daddy any more.

Recovers Handkerchief Lost Forty Years Ago

Halifax.—Forty years ago a boy pushed his pocket-handkerchief into a cavity in the Ebenezer Primitive Methodist chapel, and found he was unable to pull it out again.

The boy is now Alderman Whittaker, deputy mayor of the town, but he never forgot his lost handkerchief. The chapel has just been pulled down and the alderman asked the contractor to look out for the handkerchief.

This was done; the handkerchief was found and has been returned to Alderman Whittaker with a note from the contractor: "I don't know how you have managed without it for so many years."

The Baron's Spirit.

Samuel Gompers said at Atlantic City:

"Coal is too dear. There is no doubt about it. The coal barons have no mercy on us.

"I heard the other day about an inventor who went to a coal baron and said:

"'I have struck a marvelous invention, sir—an imitation coal that can be sold at half price.'

"'Bosh!' sneered the coal baron. 'Haven't we got one already that we sell at full price?'"

Would Do Her Best.

Charles M. Schwab says that his neighbors are forever trying to sell him things. Not long ago one man tried to sell him a cow. When Mr. Schab inquired about the breed and age of the animal he did not receive very satisfactory answers. Finally he asked, "How much milk does she give?"

"Mr. Schwab, I don't know," was the reply, "but she's a darn good-natured cow and she'll give all she can."—Boston Transcript.

Some men seem to be happy only when they have a grievance.

Failed When Real Test Came.

"What kind of a man is he—good, bad, or indifferent?"

"Well, that depends a good deal on who is on the other end of the plank with him."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, if you size him up with Judas Iscariot he looms up middlin' fair; but when you come to set him down between such fellows as you an' me, he does dwindle terrible surprisin'—he does, for a fact."

Slight Probability.

Fair Dog Owner (anxiously)—I am afraid poor Floss is going to have rabies, Mr. Vet.

Mr. Vet—I don't see any signs of it.

"But his poor little tongue is always hanging out of his mouth."

"That is in accordance with a merciful dispensation of Providence. You see, if it hung out of his ear he might experience some difficulty in drinking."

Rapid "Skinning Machine."

High speed in skinning animals is attained by a Frenchman's invention of a tool in which three knives are rotated by an electric motor at a speed of 2,800 revolutions a minute.

RECALL DAYS OF SLAVERY.

Prof. L. A. Chase, of Philipsburg, Once a Slave in Maryland.

Days of slavery were recalled recently when Mrs. John Dunnett, of Pine Grove, Pa., visited in Philipsburg at the residence of Dr. F. K. White.

Mrs. Dunnett is a great niece of Miss Susie Middlecough, long since deceased, who formerly resided at Clear Springs, Md., and who owned L. A. Chase and his mother. While Mrs. Dunnett was a guest at the White home, she extended an invitation to Prof. Chase to the home and they talked over the days when Miss Middlecough had her slaves and of how good she was to them. He was just a lad in those days, still he clings to the pleasant memory of the thoughtful way in which the mistress made her relations to him and to his mother so delightful.

Slaughter Houses Closed.

Three slaughter house were ordered closed by the Pennsylvania bureau of animal husbandry after a report was given by Dr. Ira Mitterling, of Holidaysburg, of the department, following an investigation in which he claimed their further operation would be illegal until inspection requirements were met. Said Dr. Mitterling, "I inspected slaughter houses of Harry Sanet, of Fleming; M. R. Piper, of Howard, and Guy Ertley, of Nittany, and found them not meeting sanitary conditions. My instructions were to close all of them until the defect and unsanitary conditions were satisfactorily remedied according to law."

New Map Ready.

An engraved topographic map including parts of Centre and Clearfield counties, is ready for distribution and can be secured by sending ten cents to The Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., or the Bureau of Topographical and Geological Survey, Penna. Dept. of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa. Philipsburg, the town from which the quadrangle map takes its name, is near the western edge. Grass Flat is on the northern border, Martha Furnace near the eastern border and Hannah is one mile north of the southern border.

Still Calls Him John Pumpkin

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"John Pumpkin's home!" announced Miss Priddy, holding on to her shabby old garden hat. Her black eyes regarded Elsie with curiosity.

"Who is John Pumpkin?" Elsie struggled to remember—she wondered if he was some one she really ought to recollect at once, Miss Priddy's brother-in-law or some relative?

"Forgotten?" .The old lady's tone was acid.

"I do remember! It's your new man of all work!" All the time Elsie was saying to herself, "'John Pumpkin'—I have heard that name—and it has pleasant associations—"

"You ought to know who he is, since you nicknamed him that years ago, and made him a laughing stock in the school—and, besides, I haven't any new hired man, and John Marsh is home again, to stay," she ended triumphantly.

Elsie's face was pink with excitement. As she left Miss Priddy's trim garden and walked on in the gusty October afternoon, she could vividly picture a great freckled-faced lad whose shock of thick yellow-red hair had inspired her mischievous little-girl mind and tongue to dub him "John Pumpkin." In spite of the fact that he was the only son of the great Judge Marsh, the name clung to him, and the boy had taken it good naturedly. Elsie remembered that he had called her a "sauce box," and she did not forget his solemn brown eyes as he did so.

As she busied herself about the house that afternoon she found herself thinking more than once of John Marsh and what his homecoming might mean to the folks of Little River. He had graduated from college, had traveled in far countries and had fought in the great war, but Little River had not seen him for fifteen years. The old judge and his wife had died and the big house had been closed for years. Some one had met John in New York and brought the news that he was a lawyer. So the tiny world of Little River forgot John Pumpkin.

"Is That You, Sammy Smith?"

"John Marsh is home again," said her mother that same afternoon, returning home from her sewing circle. "They say he is staying at the big house."

"It must be lonely there," remarked Elsie, as she put the finishing touches to the supper table.

"Maria Ellen's keeping house for him, they say."

"I wonder if he was ever married?"

"All the other women are asking the same question," said Mrs. Hill dryly. "It isn't likely that a man in his position would look twice at our little village girls! His high position and his wealth and education would lead him to choose a wife in his own social set."

"Pooh!" sniffed Elsie, scornfully, as she helped her mother to a piece of frosted cake, "he is only John Pumpkin, after all!"

"Elsie!" shrieked her mother, "I forbid you to rake up that old nickname after all these years. Mrs. Marsh never forgave you for it."

"Yes, she did, mother," protested Elsie, blushing; "I went and apologized to Mrs. Marsh, and she was lovely about it."

"You did? When was that?"

"Ever so long ago—before he left the village. It was when he had the scarlet fever, I think."

Mrs. Hill stared.

"Scarlet fever? And that's where you caught it—and nearly died?"

"Yes, mother, but I didn't die, after all, and was sorry for all the trouble I made. Speaking of John Pumpkin (just to you dear!) I want a pumpkin from the garden tomorrow to make some pies."

"Very well; you better pick it tonight, then—there's just one or two left, and as it's Hallowe'en it might be stolen."

* * * * * * *

A great yellow round moon was flooding the world with light when Elsie Hill opened the gate that led into the vegetable patch. In the distance the great shocks of corn made dense black shadows on the stubbled ground. Now and then leaves drifted down from the trees in a light stirring wind.

Away to the right, down the valley, she could see the scattered lights of the village; even the tall church steeple looked like a black dart against the sky. Somewhere in the near woods whippoorwill throbbed, and there was a scurrying of unseen little things among the dead grasses.

"Witches' night!" laughed Elsie, and then her face sobered. All Hallowe'en, with its fun and frolic, always brought a keen regret that her happy childhood days were gone. On a night like this she would sit on the rail fence and dream about the old schoolhouse on the hill—the fun when the snow was on the ground—the riches of acquired knowledge and the merry fun afterward—coasting, skating and candy-pulls! She was remembering now, as she walked among the withered pumpkin vines, one October night at a candy-pulling, when some mischievous boy had thoughtlessly tossed a bit of taffy at her and it caught in the golden glory of her curls! It was "John Pumpkin" who had gently removed the sticky mess, bit by bit, with warm water, and who had afterward scolded the culprit all the way home.

"Dear old John Pumpkin," murmured Elsie, as she sat down on a huge pumpkin and stared at the moon. "I expect he's terribly grown up and stand-offish, but he did have a kind heart—for a boy!"

"A-hem!" coughed some one from among the cornshocks.

Elsie did not scream. She was a country girl and used to the surprises of the night, and the demand for pumpkins was great and small boys were bold.

"Is that you, Sammy Smith?" she demanded severely.

"Why, no, it isn't," replied a pleasant masculine voice, and out from the shadow of the nearest shock stepped a tall form, bareheaded and dressed as no other man in Little River could dress.

"You startled me," said Elsie stiffly. "You are trespassing—"

"Don't say that," he protested, coming nearer so that she could see his face and puzzle over a strange resemblance to some one she ought to know. "I haven't been here for years—and I came out to live over the old happy days, and to wonder where my old playmates are! I'm John Pumpkin!"

"Oh!" Elsie blushed furiously. "I've been so sorry about that name."

"I know—you risked your life to apologize to my mother—"

"You remember me?" Elsie was amazed.

"Elsie Hill—Goldenlocks? Remember how I washed the taffy out—and a little curl had to be cut off?"

"I have forgotten the curl—I never saw it afterward," murmured Elsie.

"I kept it—I have it now!" he announced bluntly.

"Why—why—how funny!" she cried tremulously, but somehow she was very glad.

"I put it in my wallet—as I grew older I found a little leather case for it—so I have carried your little curl—as—a mascot—a good luck charm, you know," he explained lamely enough.

"How interesting! And some day you will return it to me?" asked Elsie.

"If you insist—" he returned slowly. "In all the busy years—I have had that one bright reminder of dearly loved playmates. Do you want it, Elsie Hill?"

"No," said Elsie gently. "Keep all your happy memories. Do come into the house now and see mother and father—there are apples—and nuts—"

"And you," finished John Marsh, as he helped her over the fence.

"I've forgotten my pumpkin!" cried Elsie.

"One pumpkin at a time—one at a time," laughed John as he caught Elsie's hand and ran up the path to the kitchen door.

"They were married on Hallowe'en," said Miss Priddy, a year later. "Such doings—living in the big house as grand as Cuffy, and she still calls him John Pumpkin!"

OVER THE COUNTY

A report of the total snowfall in the county during December is given as 11 inches and in January, comes 35 inches. This is a total of 45 inches. The fall in January comes close to being a record.

The autobus carrying workers to the Millheim silk mill was stalled in the snow at Aaronsburg one day last week and it took a team of horses to tow them into Millheim.

Monday evening of last week friends helped W. S. Shelton, one of Millheim's most widely known residents, to observe his birthday. He didn't let anyone know whether it was 58 or 85 but let his guests guess anywhere between these figures.

Raymond Walker, of Centre Hall, has undertaken what might naturally be considered as quite a job—that of raising a family of ten pigs by feeding them from a bottle. Walker is a farmer and the mother hog absolutely refused to tackle the job of feeding her little ones. So finally Walker hustled that litter of pigs into the farm-house.

The fiftieth annual dividend of the Millheim Banking company was paid last week. The bank started on Feb. 1, 1872, at that time being the only bank in Centre County ontside of Bellefonte and Philipsburg. Today there are banks, in Bellefonte, State College, Philipsburg, Snow Shoe, Port Matilda, Howard, Centre Hall, Spring Mills and Millheim. This is a substantial indication of the growth of Centre County in the last half century.

The John Etters farm, west of the Klinger bridge at Lemont, has been acquired by Jesse Klinger, giving him possession now of the entire farm. The Etters farm was formerly divided and given share and share to two brothers—John and Henry Etters. Some time ago Jesse Klinger inherited the part which had been owned by Henry Etters. Through a deal closed the past week Mr. Klinger secured the John Etters part for a consideration of about $5,000. The entire farm contains in the neighborhood of 116 acres. Mr. Klinger also got the tenant house and plot of land of about one acre for $2,900.

Two Ancient Wonders.

The Tower of Babel is the tower spoken of in Genesis as being built by mankind after they came down from the Ark to the plain from the mountain to the East. It was like the later temple tower of Babylon, except that it was being constructed so high that its top might reach heaven. The builders were miraculously prevented by the confounding of their language. Thus the origin of many tongues.

The Temple Mount of Nebuchadnezzar, located in Babylon, was a leviathan in the matter of temple building. A luxuriance of rich tropical verdure rose terrace after terrace and crowned the roof, thus forming a marvelous roof garden, the famed "Hanging Gardens" of Babylon.

Earthquakes in Mythology.

According to Indian mythology the world rests on the head of a great elephant, and when, for the sake of a rest, the huge monster refreshes itself by moving its head, an earthquake is produced.

The lamas say that the earth is placed on the back of a gigantic frog, and that when the frog stretches its limbs or moves its head it shakes the earth. Other Eastern mythologists place the earth on the back of a tortoise.

Greek and Roman mythologists ascribe earthquakes to the restlessness of the giants with Jupiter buried under high mountains. Thus Virgil ascribes the eruption of Etna to the giant Enceladus.

ANIMALS IMMUNE TO POISON

Only Arsenic Seems Able to Kill All Insect, Vegetable, and Animal Forms of Life.

Some animals can absorb enough poison to kill a regiment of men without suffering any ill effects at all. Morphia, for instance. Of this deadly drug a goat can swallow with impunity enough to kill one thousand human beings, London Answers says.

Cats again seem morphia proof. They can take quantities of the poison without being made in the least sleepy. On the contrary, morphia seems to excite the animals.

A pigeon has been known to eat 80 grains of morphia mixed with its food in a fortnight. Here again the bird was not in any way harmed.

Rabbits will eat belladonna, eat it to such an extent that their flesh becomes poisonous, while they themselves are not any the worse.

Canthardin is not so deadly as the poisons already mentioned, yet one grain has been known to kill a human being. You might, however, give a whole spoonful to a hedgehog without doing the slightest harm to the prickly chap.

Arsenic is one of the few poisons which kills all forms of life—insect, animal and vegetable—and of the vegetable poisons there is one—namely, nicotine—which is even more deadly in its effects on the lower animals than it is upon mankind.

Novel Snuff Boxes.

The extraordinary manner in which the natives of Iceland take snuff was described recently by A. E. Coleby, the well-known Stoll producer, who has just returned from that chilly spot, where he has been producing the exterior scenes in the screen version of Sir Hall Caine's "The Prodigal Son."

"Snuff taking in Iceland," said Mr. Coleby, according to the London Tit-Bits, "is not a habit. It is an art. Snuff boxes are made out of sheep's horns, the ends of the horns being cut off about three or four inches from the tip. A stopper is put on the wider end of this novel box, while the pointed end is pierced with a small hole.

"When the snuff taker wishes to indulge in his favorite hobby he merely puts the pointed end of the horn against his nostrils and sniffs!"

Motorized Postal Equipment.

Seven cities in the United States have equipment in their local postal service of over 100 motortrucks. Chicago leads with 421. The others are: New York, 318; Brooklyn (in Greater New York, but having a separate post office), 125; Boston, 103; Philadelphia, 103; Washington, 111, and St. Louis, 108.

Her Preference.

Before the fire Christmas eve two old maids were planning for the holiday.

"Sister Molly," said the younger, "would a long stocking hold all you'd want for a Christmas gift?"

"No, Elvira," said the elder; "but a pair of socks would."

Meet Me Next Wednesday, February 14
Altoona Booster Stores' Dollar Day

Correspondence

Pine Grove Mills.

The pesky little weather prognosticator, the ground-hog, must have seen his shadow on the 2nd as mercury has been hanging around zero and was 5 degrees below on Tuesday morning.

Levi Bathurst, who was injured several months ago, was discharged from the Altoona hospital Wednesday. This will be good news to his many friends in the valley.

Brooks Corl, teacher at Clarks school, is ill at his home here, but hopes to resume his duties next week.

E. S. Moore and Wm. Houts are laid up from rheumatism.

Will Kuhn is snugly fixed up housekeeping in the Samuel Eberhart mansion by the roadside in the Branch.

Grain merchant, J. D. Neidigh, is loading three cars this week with $1.25 wheat to be shipped to mills within the state.

Mrs. Margaret Robinson, of Tyrone, spent several days the late end of the week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, on the East Main St.

Miss Nan Bailey, after three weeks visiting in the western part of the state, returned Friday perfectly delighted with the trip and visit.

Our hustling Ford and garage man, J. R. Smith, celebrated his birthday on ground-hog day. He was the recipient of many cards, presents and well wishes for him for a long lease of life and usefulness.

Harry Thompson, of Charter Oak, is busy logging, getting out timber for Raymond Rudy's new home to be erected at State College next summer.

The men's Sunday school class at Gatesburg held a social at Mrs. Laura Gates' residence at Gatesburg last Wednesday evening. Chicken and waffles and all that constitutes a good feast were served. $45 was realized for Near East Relief.

It was fortunate that Harry Musser got out of bed an hour earlier than usual one morning recently. On entering the kitchen, he found it full of smoke and fire, which started in an old fire-place, burning through the flooring. In a short time the building would have been in flames and doomed to destruction. A bucket brigade soon squelched the flames.

Sydney Neidigh is quite ill at his home.

D. H Krebs is seriously ill from liver trouble, causing his family and friends much alarm.

Mrs. Maude Fry and son Hugh enjoyed the sleighing the late end of the week and spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Etta Corl, at White Hall.

The Ferguson Twp. Citizens' band will hold a festival in the I. O. O. F. hall Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 16 and 17. Oysters and dainties will be served on Friday evening. Chicken and waffles and all that go to make a full meal on Saturday evening, served from 6 until 9 o'clock. Several street concerts will be on. Everybody help the boys and give them a boost.

The first of the series of Farm Bureau meetings was held in the school building with a good crowd of farmers. Farm Agent J. N. Robinson was in charge. He briefly gave an outline of the object of the meetings. Prof. Walker gave an interesting and instructive talk on 'Corn, the King Crop." He emphasized the need of good soil and cultivation. The next meeting is on Tuesday evening. The subject will be "Dairying." The farmers are urged to attend all these meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Irvin were guests at a turkey dinner at the John Bell home in Tyrone the first day of the week.

Miss Irene Pletcher on Monday returned from Howard to the C. M. Dale home on the Branch.

Hall Krebs, one of Altoona's business men, spent last week greeting old cronies in town, the home of his childhood.

Our friend, Ben Everhart has the commissioner's bee buzzing in his head for Huntingdon County and would make a splendid official.

Postmaster Barr is slowly improving but not able to be out of his room.

Robert Barr, of Williamsburg, is visiting among old friends of his boyhood days in and out of town.

Among the late arrivals last week was a little daughter at the Chas. T. Homan home on the Branch and a little daughter at the David Noll home near town.

Henry S. Illingsworth is shy a good cow which smothered to death when caught under a straw stack that toppled over on Friday night.

Electrocuted Twice.

F. G. Bullen, electrocuted in Arkansas for murder and placed in his coffin, was found to be still living when examined by the physician just before the lid was put on the rough box. The man was taken from the coffin and placed in the chair again. After having the current pass through his body for three minutes longer, he was again pronounced dead.

John S. Mattern Dead.

John S. Mattern passed away at his home at Seven Stars on Friday morning. He submitted to a surgical operation a few years ago; recovered and was able to do light chores about the farm. He died where he was born and spent his entire life on the old homestead farm. John Stewart was a son of George and Jane McPherson Mattern. He was born May 18, 1849, and was the last of his father's family. July 3, 1887, he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Patterson. Nine children were born to them. The widow and the following children survive: Mrs. Warren Bailey, of Johnstown; Geo. W., of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Eugene Waite, Mrs. Harriet Bush, of Tyrone; Samuel, Milton and Frank, of Spruce Creek. He was a zealous member of the Spruce Creek Presbyterian church. Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the home and burial made in the nearby cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Reed McNitt Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Reed McNitt, a well known and a lifelong resident of Mifflin County, died at her home in Reedsville last Thursday from infirmities due to her advanced aged, she being past 83 years old. She was the widow of Alexander B. McNitt, who passed from this life about twenty years ago. She was the last member of her family. An active member of the Presbyterian church during her lifetime and a devoted mother, placing her homelife above all other activities, she will be sadly missed in the community where she had resided so many years. Surviving are four sons: A. R., of Bellefonte; A. Brown, of Milroy; O. J., Reedsville; R. C., Mifflin; and three daughters: Nancy and Rhoda J., at home, and Mary, wife of Rev. Steckel, a Presbyterian minister at Detroit, Mich. Funeral services were held on Monday and burial made in Reedsville.

Bruce A. Hull Dead.

Bruce A. Hull, of Fillmore, died on Wednesday morning from sugar diabetes. He was 24 years old on April 9, last. Surviving are his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Alma Huey; his mother, Mrs. William Billet, of Coleville; the following brothers and sisters: Harry, of Lock Haven; Mrs. Michael Torsell, of Bellefonte; Mrs. George B. Hoover, Arthur, Frank, Oran, Edward, Clarence, and Helen, all of Fillmore. Roy, the eldest member of the family, was killed in France in the World war. Funeral services will be held in Buffalo Run Presbyterian church on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial made in the Myers cemetery.

Miss Anna T. Peters Dead.

Miss Anna T. Peters, a popular modiste with an establishment on Chestnut St., Philadelphia, died on Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert G. Foster, of Philadelphia, from pneumonia. Deceased was a native of Unionville, born on Feb. 26, 1867. She is survived by the following brothers and sisters: John W. Peters, Unionville; Mrs. Frank S. Grau and Mrs. Robert G. Foster, Philadelphia; Mrs. Cheney K. Hicklen, Bellefonte, and Davis I. Peters, of Walla Wells, Wash. The body was brought here this Thursday and burial made at Unionville.

Mrs. Eliza Breon Dead.

Mrs. Eliza Breon, of Smullton, died on Friday from apoplexy. She was a native of Aaronsburg and about 70 years old. The following children survive: Geo. W., Salt Lake City, Utah; Israel, Reading; Miles, at home; Mrs. W. J. Hockenberry, Rebersburg; Emma, New York, and Mrs. Elmer Swope, Millheim. Burial was made Tuesday in Union cemetery at Rebersburg.

Death of Child.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fisher, of Milesburg, died on Wednesday from Bright's disease. He was 2 years, 6 months old. Besides the parents, he is survived by two brothers and one sister, Paul, Amy and Mark, at home. Funeral services will be held from the home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial made in Trexlyntz cemetery.

Mrs. D. T. Stover Dead.

Mrs. D. T. Stover, of Smullton, died last Friday from infirmities due to her age. She was 80 years old. Three daughters survive as follows: Mrs. Kate Burd, at home; Mrs. H. H. Royer, Rebersburg; Mrs. Carrie Detwiler, Smullton. Funeral services were held on Tuesday and burial made in Union cemetery at Rebersburg.

Orin Miller Dead.

Orin Miller, a former well-known resident of Bellefonte, died in Erie yesterday at the home of his son Arthur. Francis Miller, of State College, is a son. Burial will be made here in the Catholic cemetery on Saturday morning.

Coasting Brought Infection.

Mary Shoser, 6, of Osceola Mills, injured her knee while coasting and the wound became infected so that she was taken to the Cottage State hospital in Philipsburg last week for treatment.

To Teach Wrestling.

Jess Sarson, heavy-weight wrestler of State College, has been secured to teach wrestling at the Bellefonte "Y".

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

tion to be held in the Penn Harris hotel in Harrisburg on Feb. 20 and 21. The special committee was authorized to name those who should attend.

In a written communication, J. B. Rossman enclosed a permit from the state fire department for the installation of a 550 gallon tank and pump at his place of business at 25 West Bishop street. Council was asked to approve it and the matter was referred to the fire and police committee.

A letter from John Curtin, secretary of the board of health, stated the board had elected John Love to succeed him on April 1, 1923, and that the salary of the town health officer had been increased to $10.

The street committee reported collections with a total of $30 40

The water committee reported collections on the 1921 duplicate of $34. Also, the total number of meter bills now is 144 with ten or twelve more to add, whereas a few years ago when it was started there was a total of only ten or twelve. The receipts from the water meters now approximate $5,000 per year.

The sanitary committee reported that Ambrose Ray had complained about the water pipe across Bishop street to his residence freezing in winter time because it was not laid deeply enough. This was referred to the water committee.

The finance committee reported balance in the two banks as $18,539. Notes of $1,000 and $2,000 were presented for renewal and interest orders and granted.

A new light was placed at the corner of Ridge street and Cherry alley.

UNDER BAIL FOR COURT

Several from Philipsburg Held After Hearing.

Several residents of Philipsburg and Rush township, were placed under bail for their appearance in court in Bellefonte after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Byron on Friday evening. Charles Hemmis was placed under a total of $1,500 on two charges; Morris Cartwright, $1,600; William Osewalt, $200; Roy Stratton and Paul Lane each $500. A woman "in the case" apparently left the town and escaped being taken into custody.

Hemmis, Cartwright and Osewalt, were charged with breaking into a dwelling occupied by Stratton and Lane, and with forcibly taking a revolver and other articles from Stratton.

Bernard F. Gill, a deputy sheriff, made information against Stratton and Lane, charging them with vile and indecent language, drinking intoxicating beverages and with keeping an immoral house.

Steve Rusnak, owner of the building, charged Hemmis, Cartwright and Osewalt, with breaking into the building and tearing an anvil from its block.

NEW TYPE COACH HERE

Gasoline Driven Coach Given Test Trip.

A gasoline driven coach of the type used on many steam and electric railways because of more economical operation, was driven from Williamsport to Lock Haven, over the Bald Eagle valley to Bellefonte and return to Williamsport via the Lewisburg and Tyrone branch through Penn's valley and the Narrows, on Wednesday morning. The test was apparently not satisfactory, however, though no official statement has been made and it is understood that replacement of the steam driven trains in this section will not come in the near future.

Operators and officials from the Williamsport division made the test trip. The coach has a seating capacity for 32 persons, which is just about half the number accommodated in the modern coaches, of which a steam locomotive draws a large dumber when conditions justify.

Railway Accidents Increased.

During 1922 there were 8,678 accidents reported on steam and street railways in Pennsylvania. There were 754 deaths and 8,794 persons injured. This is an increase in the total number of accidents over 1921 of 789, which is a record. Collisions at grade crossings increased from 605 to 682 with an increase of twenty per cent in the number of persons killed. Automobiles were involved in 555 of the grade crossing accidents. In addition, 189 employes, twelve passengers and 259 trespassers were killed on the railroads. All this in spite of the safety campaign that were waged at great expense.

Want Special Air Mail.

Bankers in Cleveland, Ohio, have requested a special air mail service between that city and Bellefonte, train connections to be made at Bellefonte and the mail forwarded with much more speed in that manner, in order to save the bankers estimated costs of $65,000 per day. It is claimed by the Cleveland bankers that during the months the big city is on the daylight saving basis their accounts are held over for a day right along, and the $65,000 daily cost is lost as interest

Gave Blood for Sister.

John Chessy, of Osceola Mills, underwent a blood transfusion operation at the Cottage State hospital, Philipsburg, for his sister Catherine. She is reported as improving.

GOT RID OF RATS.

Flooded Their Nests and Used Club to Kill.

Pestered by rats that placed their nests in holes in the ground at his chicken coop, feasted on the eggs and chicken feed and proved too wily to get into the most skilfully set and baited traps, the patience of E. C. Groat, of the Lock Haven chair corporation refused to stand for it any longer and he determined to be rid of the pests.

With several friends to assist him, he extended a hose from a water spigot to the chicken coop and flooded the nests of the rats. One by one they tried to escape and as they came into the open they were quickly killed by clubs in the hands of the men. A few refused to race out and were drowned. The total kill was 35, some of very large size, and Mr. Groat is now convinced that he used the right method and is entirely rid of the rats.

Samuel Gingerich, a Centre Hall man, with the assistance of a neighbor, rid his hen house of rats in much the same manner last spring. They killed 23 rats and the number just filled a half-bushel measure.

Red Cross Officers.

The annual election of officers for the Red Cross Chapter of Bellefonte will be held next Monday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock in the Red Cross room. The nomination committee—Miss Anna Hoy, Messrs. John Blanchard and Harry Keller—selected the following nominees: Rev. M. DePui Maynard, chairman; Rev. W. P. Ard, vice chairman; Chas. M. McCurdy, treasurer; Mrs. Max Gamble, secretary; Mrs. Wilson Ard, Miss Mary Blanchard, Mrs. R. S. Brouse, Mrs. Chas. R. Kurtz, Elizabeth Meek, Mrs. Blanche Schloss, Mrs. James Seibert, Messrs. H. P. Harris, John Love, Dr. J. L. Seibert, and Kline Woodring. Every person enrolled in the Red Cross is entitled to vote and all should feel interested to assure capable officers for the coming year.

Market Quotations.

"The Republican" market reports as published this week were corrected on Wednesday and are dependable.

GARDEN BOOK 1923

WILL BE YOUR GUIDE TO A SUCCESSFUL GARDEN

It tells in its 224 pages how to grow the best Vegetables and Flowers and offers everything needed for the Garden, Greenhouse, Lawn and Farm, including Vegetable and Farm Seeds, Roses, Dahlias, Hardy Perennials and other Plants. Garden Implements, Lawn Mowers, Lawn Rollers, Fertilizers, Insecticides, etc. You will need this book of reference mady times during the season for gardening.

A copy will be mailed free if you mention this publication.

HENRY A. DREER
714-716 Chestnut St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A United States Senator, from a southern state, recently introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 000 to buy nitrate of soda to be sold to farmers at cost. If the government is to buy fertilizers, why not machinery, gasoline and everything else that the farmer uses. Then take a step further in socialism and take on the railroads, mines, manufacturing plants and farms, to be operated for public benefit.

Is there a farmer in Centre county who wants the government to own and operate his farm, with all the production to be placed in one common fund for equal distribution to all, including the lazy and incompetent? Does he care to pay such price for the privilege of buying fertilizer even below cost?

We think not. What the farmer needs is a foreign market; not idle talk and futile legislation.

Samuel C. Benson, Ph. D., former general secretary of the American Bible society, is said to have told a gathering of newspaper men in New York about many cures wrought by prayer. The photograph was made during his pilgrimage across New York state distributing Bibles.

On Olympus.

It'd be right interesting to be standing around when all these earthworms get to celestial regions nad start bragging. Can you imagine the discoverer of electricity telling Vulcan about it, or the inventor of gunpowder boasting of his achievements to Mars? Think of the world's greatest aviator trying to interest Mercury in airplanes, or the fellow who warned the people of the Johnstown flood explaining what an awful thing it was to Noah!

And say—also, too, in addition—we'd like to be there when a Twentieth century flapper gives Venus her idea of love!—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

For Sharp Tuning.

An exceptionally large antenna makes it more difficult to tune a radio set sharply, and for this reason it is advised that a very short, single-wire antenna (approximately 90 feet long, measuring from the apparatus to the far end) be used. This single-wire antenna should be stretched away from all metallic objects, and run straight and clear of all obstructions.

LEGION MEN FOR ATHLETICS

Wisconsin Members Plan Lively Program of Sports for the Remainder of the Winter.

Wisconsin American Legionnaires expect to expand their athletic program this year to include practically every phase of sport. Plans have been started toward a varied program that will keep the various state posts actively engaged until early July.

Charles Byrnes.

Questionnaires have been submitted relative to what branch of sport each post is most actively interested in. These answers are daily pouring in.

Wisconsin will endeavor to stage not only post programs but will conduct state contests open to all posts. State contests in basketball and track are already being planned. The basketball tournament will no doubt be held in March in a city yet to be selected. Trophies have been selected for the basketball tournament.

If plans go through as outlined posts will engage in bowling contests with the results telegraphed to the other contesting team. If interest in this event runs high enough the state will attempt to conduct a state tournament in the spring. At present the posts in Milwaukee have started a six team league.

If sectional tournaments are held in any spert the posts of that particular section will back the movement. However, all state tournaments will be staged and authorized by the state department.

Wisconsin is the home of skiing. Several large jumps are to be found in Chippewa Falls and Iola. While it is not thought at this time that state tourneys will be held in this sport yet sectional champs may be held by the posts in the sections near the jumps.

Charles Byrnes is the Wisconsin state athletic officer for the Legion.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP IN LEGION

La Societe Des 40 Hommes Et 8 Cheveaux to Inject Spirit of Comradeship in Great Organization.

Establishment of a spirit of comradeship and fellowship in the American Legion is the object of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Cheveaux, according to Edward J. Eivers of Portland, Ore., chef de chemin de fer (president) of that organization, which is the playground society of the Legion. Eivers is perhaps the one person most responsible for the society's growth.

Edward J. Eivers.

Born in Portland, Eivers attended the Christian Brothers' college, where he was graduated in 1908. He entered the wholesale business world as a salesman. When the trouble on the Mexican border took place Eivers, who was a private in Company H, Third Oregon infantry, went with his organization to Texas.

He entered the World war with the same regiment as captain of the machine gun company. Eivers arrived in France in December, 1917, and served with the Forty-first division until he returned to America in February, 1919.

The first temporary chairman of the Oregon department of the Legion, Eivers was made department adjutant by the first convention in 1919, and served until January 1, 1922.

He was elected chef de chemin de fer at the Kansas City convention of the 40 and 8 society, and was re-elected at the recent New Orleans convention. Under Eivers' leadership, the organization, which was in existence before it was recognized by the Legion, showed a gain from a deficit to a profit of $10,000 one year after he took charge. In appreciation of his efforts the New Orleans convention re-elected Eivers unanimously.

Sleep at Right Angles.

A winged ant or a moth will take hold of a stalk of grass or weed with its mandibles and while hanging on at right angles take a nap.

Wind may blow, the grass may wave and toss like a ship in a storm, but the napper goes on napping.

It is as if a man clamped his teeth to a rope and then went to sleep, high in the air. Only the insect's jaws stay set while it sleeps much the same way as the foot of a chicken clamps itself on a roost at night, and does not open again till morning.—Pearson's Weekly.

KANSAS PLAN TO GET DUES

Conversational Sketch Is Used to Induce Auxiliary Members to Keep Their Credit Clear.

The Kansas department of the American Legion Auxiliary has issued a bulletin to each unit in the state containing a clever little conversational sketch, illustrating the importance of keeping one's credit clear with the auxiliary. The heroine of the sketch is Mrs. "Ima Member," who in conversation with her friend, Mrs. "De Linquent," endeavors to bring home the advisability of paying dues in the auxiliary for 1923.

"Mrs. 'Ima Member': I'm so proud of my new auxiliary membership card; you will notice that it bears the date, 1923. I always pay my dues a little in advance of the new year, in order to keep up with the times. This little card means much to me. It commemorates the gallant service of four millions of valiant young Americans in the great war; it breathes the spirit of true democracy; it speaks to me of service for those who jeopardized their lives, that I might remain at home in peace and safety. In short, I believe in the doctrine of legionism."

"Mrs. 'De Linquent': You are quite right. I am beginning to see, in a new light, the great opportunities for service that are open to me through my membership in the American Legion Auxiliary. Instead of paying up my membership fees promptly at the beginning of this year, I waited until the middle of the summer. But this shall not happen again. How can I get a membership card for 1923, right away?"

"Mrs. 'Ima Member': Consult Miss 'Do It,' the unit secretary, immediately; you will be asked to pay 75 cents department and national dues, plus the amount of local dues determined by the unit. Upon receipt of dues at the department office in Topeka, you will be issued a 1923 card. And do you know, they say that two Legion posts in the state have already remitted to the Topeka office for their entire membership. So you see, if we are going to 'keep step' with the boys, we must get busy."

"Mrs. 'De Linquent': How very simple. You know I have a family of seven sisters and they are all in arrears with their dues. I shall use my influence to the utmost to see that we are graduated from the 'delinquent' class before the next auxiliary meeting."

TO MEMORY OF ALL SOLDIERS

Construction Soon to Be Started on Splendid Memorial in City Park at Pocatello, Idaho.

Work is progressing rapidly and construction will be started in early spring on a memorial in Pocatello, Idaho, for all soldiers and sailors of all wars, according to Ivan Gasser, commander of Pocatello Post No. 4 of the American Legion, which has charge of the project Gasser recently presided at a meeting which selected 30 citizens from different organizations to assist the Legion in drawing the plans and financing the building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Ivan Gasser.

The memorial to be erected in Pocatello will be in keeping with the greatness of the contributions of the city and Bannock county in the World war. The site has been donated by the city in the park, overlooking the Portneuf river.

"No nation is greater than its memories," was the keynote of a stirring address delivered at the recent meeting by the post chaplain, Rev. Harry S. Hamilton.

HE LIKES WAR-TIME THRILLS

S. G. Irwin, Legion Man, Former Army Flyer, Is an Expert in Aerial Acrobatics.

The thrills of war-time aviation were not enough for S. G. Irwin, former World war flyer and member of the American Legion.

S. G. Irwin.

With the return to peace, Irwin stayed in the flying game and became a specialist in stunt flying and in aerial acrobatics. One of his favorite antics is when he "stalls" or "pancakes" his machine over the business districts of large cities. An extreme nicety of touch is required in this operation since the motor is cut off and the plane is allowed to settle slowly toward the earth. The slightest error in judgment usually results in a crash. In flying speed means safety.

Irwin thrilled his former comrades at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans with his aerial feats over the downtown district.

Missed It.

"A Wells county man had a wireless telephone outfit," said an Indianapolis newspaper man the other day, "and was listening to a program of music. Then came announcement that the next selection would be 'Three o'clock in the Morning.' The man closed the machine, set his alarm clock for 3 a. m., and retired."

Old Hanley made no friends. His absorbing passion was his only grandchild. But his was an unreasoning, jealous affection, which brought to the girl no happiness. Being a modern young woman, Diana grieved not, but doing her duty fairly by the old man, still fought determinedly for her rightful freedom. So peace did not always reign beneath the roof of the great house that was her grandfather's.

The issue now at hand was Diana's announcement of her engagement. And the suitor in question was not approved, because no suitor could be approved, in her grandfather's selfish plan, which was that the young woman's devotion be given to himself wholly—during the remainder of his solitary years. This, he insisted, was but part of the debt she owed.

How Diana had managed to meet her lover, old Hanley, inwardly fuming, could not know. Diana had met Barry Gale while on a visit to a school chum. Barry was a decent young chap, honestly in love, and honestly striving to make a place for himself in the world of business. Because his years were young he had not advanced far—there must needs be some patient waiting upon the part of the engaged couple.

"Unless you give up this young man during the year to come, every cent of my money shall go to another young woman." His tongue was sarcastic.

"But Jared"—this was Diana's affectionately disrespectful title for her grandfather—"Jared where will you find the young woman to take my place? As I understand your will, the heir is to have this property only on condition of living on in the old house and 'supporting it in the style to which it has been accustomed.' Of course you will leave money enough for that—but what young woman may carry on the home of our fathers?"

Old Hanley's eyes glittered; meaningly he pressed a button on his desk. Immediately the door opened and a young woman entered the office room. She was a quiet appearing young woman, unlike Diana's vibrant personality.

"Miss Rhoda Brent," the old man introduced, "my granddaughter, Miss Diana Curwood."

Silently the girls regarded each other.

To Diana, standing there in her crimson sweater, it seemed that one of the old-time pictures from the hall had given up its subject. Surely Miss Rhoda, with her shy sweet smile, her quaint pretty manner, was not a spirit of present times.

"Miss Brent," Jared Hanley explained, "is my new secretary. Mullins, my lawyer, recommended her. She has been recently left alone in her country home and Mullins was a friend of her father."

When Miss Brent was dismissed the old man turned to his granddaughter—"That," he said quietly, "is the young woman to whom my property and fortune will be bequeathed if you prefer to forfeit it. Miss Brent will read to me as I desire, or perform those small social services which my granddaughter should, but does not find pleasure in rendering. If she proves faithful in undivided attention she, and not you, will reap the reward."

That Rhoda Brent proved faithful in her tasks was not to be disputed. Neither did Diana relent in her devotion to her earnest young lover.

Barry was sad at the sacrifice which his beloved must make for his sake, and Diana, good naturedly indifferent, was kindly companionable with her acrid grandfather. Rhoda walked often with the disapproved girl through the gardens.

"It is so comforting," Diana once said, "to have a trusted woman confidante in my home. You cannot know how comforting, Rhoda." And the secretary, freed from duty in the late hours of the evening, would sit in her bedroom sewing things fine and filmy for Diana's trousseau.

So the year passed. And Barry Gale came to his desired goal. He might dare to marry Diana now.

It was Rhoda who suggested a way out. Her little vacant home in the country town would be of easy access to the city, she offered; with a very few new furnishings it might be made inviting.

The old man, when he heard the surprising arrangement, sat for a time staring at the happy young faces before him. Diana's threatened usurper and Diana herself, had turned the tables of his spite into loving friendliness. He made one last effort at vengeance.

"So," he said, "you two will change places. Diana of Hanley estate, in the Brent's humble cottage. Rhoda Brent, mistress and owner, here."

But Rhoda's soft voice was raised to dispute him. "That could never be," she said. "Diana's happy presence alone has made my staying here possible. I could not remain if she goes." To the old man alone, she added, "And her presence here alone can make your happiness. Give your granddaughter welcome, and her young husband, who shall be a strength to you. And if you still wish me to stay on then, as your secretary—" Which was at last the arrangement. And because Jared had learned that love is stronger than power, they all lived happily together ever after—that is, until Rhoda found her own greater love—which is another story.

Juvenile Sheik Exposes Past.

When, in course of the instruction in English, the assignment was the writing of autobiographies, one youngster in Technical high school, after enumerating the place and time of his birth, the Sunday school he attended and the sports he liked, unfolded a few more intimate details.

Among these was the following confession:

"When I was in grade school, I had a girl all of the time. In fact, I was a regular sheik."

The teacher marked his paper, it is rumored, with a question mark in red pencil after this paragraph.—Indianapolis News.

AT AGE 71, FINDS HOUSEWORK EASY

Mrs. Jennings Says Tanlac Restored Strength After "Flu" Attack and Ended Stomach Trouble.

"I was almost an invalid and Tanlac built me up to a strong, well woman. I consider it my best friend," is the grateful and characteristic statement of Mrs. Emma Jennings, residing at Clearwater, Cal.

"An attack of the grippe left me completely broken down. My stomach felt sick, my legs and arms so tired and weak I could hardly use them, and I scarcely had energy and strength to dress myself. I just kept getting weaker in spite of all I could do and, as I am seventy-one, I had begun to think my age was against me ever getting well.

"Almost from the day I began taking Tanlac I commenced to feel stronger. So I kept picking up with every bottle until now I can easily do all my housework, for I am feeling fine. I wouldn't be without Tanlac in the house. It is just grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

PALE, THIN WOMEN NEED GOOD TONIC

Best Medicine Always the Cheapest in the End—Results Quicker.

HERE IS A TONIC YOU TAKE AT HOME

How easily weak, frail, delicate, pale, sickly women can build themselves up is told below. It has been proven a thousand times. Read what this lady says:

"I was all run down. I was so weak, pale and sickly the lightest kind of housework wore me out. I kept my daughter home a week at a time to help me, but the rest did me no good and I kept going downhill. I was a living skeleton. I tried a lot of the advertised tonics, but none were strong enough to reach my case until I took Hypo-Cod. I took six bottles of Hypo-Cod because from the first I could see it doing me real good. I gained twelve pounds. My face gained some healthy color. I grew so strong and well that I can do the work of two women and never feel it. I do my own housework right now and care for a neighbor's child besides. I eat as much in one meal now as I formerly did in three. My whole family was amazed at my remarkable recovery. I used to be a tired, weak, run-down woman until Hypo-Cod came along, and today I feel just grand. I can honestly say that Hypo-Cod built me up after other tonics failed," enthusiastically declared Mrs. Sarah Little, 4413 Garwood Way, Pittsburgh.

There is a wonderful difference between Hypo-Cod and old-fashioned, nasty-tasting, weaker remedies. Hypo-Cod tastes fine. Does the work days and weeks sooner and, although powerful, is so smooth it agrees with even the weakest stomach. Don't risk being sickly as wet, cold, dangerous pneumonia weather arrives. Build, tone, fortify, strengthen yourself. You'll like Hypo-Cod. It costs only $1.00 per large bottle—any drug store, or write for it. Pay postman when it comes. Earle Chemical Co., Wheeling, W. Va.—Advertisement.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE consists of an Ointment which Quickly Relieves by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic, which assists in improving the General Health.

MAMMOTH TRADE EVENT.

Dollar Day By Altoona Merchants Next Wednesday.

Dollar Day, as promoted by the co-operating stores comprising the Altoona Booster Association, each succeeding time, verge more closely on the spectacular. The credit for the success of the movement is shared with the good people who read the Republican. It takes two people to strike up a bargain—the seller and the purchaser. The two are brought together in this event in a mutual benefit fashion that is indeed remarkable.

Bargains! There have been thousands of them offered and accepted in the past. Dollars talked in big terms. Scarcecly any article in the catalogue of household or personal necessities could be mentioned that could not be had for a dollar. Not exactly anticipating the wants of everybody, no Booster was able to have on hand just exactly enough of the particular articles that happened to be the "best seliers."

But merchants gain and grow by experience. That is the reason there is no hesitency in making the statement that the Dollar Day to be held in Altoona on Wednesday, Feb. 14 will be the greatest trade event ever held in the city. The members of the Boosters' Association are prepared for what is coming. They will have the goods, the values and the assistance to turn over to the public, in exchange for their dollars, just what they want.

Dollars will be king on Feb. 14. Count your needs, no matter what they may be; bring as many dollars as you have needs. Every need will be filled, and the values will rise so far above the price that arithmetical comparison will be an impossibility. Join the Booster throng. It will be a splendid way to spend Valentine Day. Get yourself practical, useful valentines at the Dollar Day stores.—Ada.

Boy Scout News.

The cafeteria supper held on Jan. 23 was a great success. The proceeds are for the camp fund. The troop wishes to express their appreciation to all who made the supper so successful. Through the generosity of James H. Potter, the Scouts conducted a hike and overnight camp at the Potter-Hoy cabin at Curtin on Friday, arriving home Saturday afternoon. This Thursday, the Boy Scouts of America celebrated their thirteenth anniversary. Scouting was introduced into this country from England, Feb. 8, 1910. The Boy Scout organization is incoroporated by an act of Congress, its leadership is furnished by men who are anxious that the boys of America should come under an influence that forms good character and tesches good citizenship. Eight boys of Troop No. 3 of the Catholic church, who are without a scout master of their own, are now attending our meetings. The Scouts have a basket ball team and issue a challenge to any other young boys' team. Andrew Wetzel, assistant scribe.

To The Good People of Bellefonte And Surrounding Territory

This is just an expression of our appreciation of your part in the success of the very satisfactory sale which just closed at our store. Years ago when this store was first founded we asked the people for their confidence and a share of their patronage. We are awfully glad to know that we have obtained your confidence whole heartedly and much more of your patronage than we had hoped for at first, then, through the years and after we grew stronger and more pretentions, we received more and more of the business and the good will of the people of Centre County.

Each year has placed our store nearer the goal its founders hoped to have it occupy—tangible asset to a thrifty growing community. The season just closed has been the largest in our history—continuing the unabated growth that has marked this business from its inception continued success has only served to make us more wide awake, more enthusiastic and more confident. It has served to make us more determinined than ever to conduct this business on vigorous, unrelenting policy of quality and low price. Any measure of success we have enjoyed in the past will be far overshadowed by the success we are going to make this business merit in the future. Were we to make any resolution today, it would be merely to resolve to follow the same proven and time-tested methods that have put this store in the front ranks of the County mercantile institutions.

We will continue to hold persistently to our ideals of style and quality and dependability of merchandise and we will keep advancing these ideals to meet the demands of a discriminating people. This store has maintained a realationship with its customers that has built a reputation for fair dealing and abundant good will for the institution. We are in our present favorable position only because in the past we have been able to recognize our opportunity for improvement. We want the people of this community to know that we are grateful for their patronage, and at any time that you buy merchandise at our store that you wish to exchange, we are only too glad to adjust any thing you desire. We appreciate your business to the extent that we do hope will always merit your patronage indefinitely and we thank you for this co-operation.

Sincerely yours,

Montgomery & Co.
